The coronavirus pandemic is far from over, but more and more states are reopening. And while it's not safe to eat at a restaurant indoors, many restaurants are lowering the risks for diners and employees by having people eat outside. If you're ready to get back to (somewhat) normal, we've rounded up the best outdoor restaurant in every state.

And whatever you do, be sure to avoid The Very Worst Coronavirus Hot Spot in Every State.

ALABAMA: The Hangout in Gulf Shores

The perfect way to start the day is to take a sunrise photo of the Tetons and then stop at Dornan's Chuckwagon Grill for breakfast. The cowboy-approved menu continues into lunch and dinner with fire-cooked meats and dishes cooked in cast-iron pans.

And when you're not eating at a restaurant, don't miss these 30 Cheap Costco Buys That Make the Membership Worth It.

An earlier version of this story misspelled the name of Federal Galley in Pennsylvania. Eat This, Not That! regrets the error.
